SENSATIONAL POLITICAL STIR IN LONDON

Mr. Arthur Henderson, with Mr. George Lansbury, present leader of the Labour Party.

FREE STATE STRUGGLE UNITED NATIONAL PARTY FORMATION NOW CERTAIN

Dublin, Sept. 1.
Little doubt now exists that the opposition parties in the Irish Free State will combine into a single party.

Three groups are concerned, the Liberal Centre Party, the Cosgrave Centre Party and General O'Duffy's National Guard (the Blue Shirts).
A definite move towards consolidating the opposition to Mr. de Valera, with General O'Duffy as the leader of the new unified body, was made to-day when the Executive of the Liberal Centre Party decided to recommend the Party to agree to merge with the Cosgrave Party.

The United National Party, as the new organisation will be called, will be led by General O'Duffy with Mr. Cosgrave as the Party Chairman in the Dail Eirann.

BLUFF CALLED.

General O'Duffy continues to defy Mr. de Valera to carry out the threat contained in the proscriptive of the Blue Shirts.
When police tried to question Gen. O'Duffy in connection with a parade of the Blue Shirts in West Cork in spite of the government's ban on the wearing of uniforms, Gen. O'Duffy merely said that he could make his statements to the press only. The Irish authorities are now in a very unenviable position as they know only too well that the arrest of Gen. O'Duffy would only contribute to strengthen and popularise the Blue Shirt movement.—Reuter.

LABOUR INTRIGUES ALLEGED

BEHIND THE SCENE IN 1931

COMMANDER'S STORY

LEADING FIGURES INVOLVED

London, Sept. 1.
A great political stir, in which Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, Viscount Snowden and Mr. Arthur Henderson are the central figures, has been caused by allegations made public by the Labour M.P., Commander Kenworthy.

Commander Kenworthy makes some startling charges regarding intrigues over the leadership of the Labour Party in 1931, just before the collapse of the Labour Government.

The story to-day is hotly denied by Viscount Snowden who declares that the whole of the allegations are "an unmitigated lie."

PREMIER FOR INDIA

According to Commander Kenworthy, who is telling the story in his forthcoming autobiography, the intrigues followed the idea that Mr. Ramsay MacDonald should go to India as the Viceroy.

It will be recalled that there were rumours at the time that the Prime Minister was contemplating accepting the Viceroyalty.

Commander Kenworthy says that following hints of this possibility, the party approached Mr. Arthur Henderson, who was willing to be nominated to the leadership.

Viscount Snowden, who hotly denied Commander Kenworthy's allegations.

SNOWDEN'S "HATE"

Commander Kenworthy says that he and others approached Mr. Snowden, who was at first very charming, believing that the indication of leadership was to himself.

After this, Commander Kenworthy says he believes that when the truth was out and Mr. Snowden realised that Mr. Henderson was intended for the leadership, he began to hate the party with which he spent so many years.

Viscount Snowden, in issuing a denial of the whole story, also indulges in an allegation against Commander Kenworthy, declaring that the Commander asked him to intrigue against Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, which he flatly refused to do.—Reuter.

Mr. Hin-shing Lo, instructed by J. M. Hall and Co., appeared for the accused.

The case is a sequel to an accident on the Island Road where a lorry overturned and threw a coolie to the ground on August 28.

THE SOONG ESCAPE

HOODWINKING OF ENTHUSIASTS

A MOTOR LAUNCH TRICK

Shanghai, Aug. 30.
It is maintained by some not without basis in fact that Mr. T. V. Soong has missed his calling in becoming a Finance Minister instead of a magician.

This assertion, however, can only be definitely determined after reports have been made by the various welcoming committees who went out to meet him yesterday, many of whom have vanished into thin air.

The demonstrations attendant upon Mr. Soong's return have left many an estimable citizen in a very jittery state of mind from their efforts to find him; a condition which can best be realized from the fact that late last night officers of the President Jefferson were still pulling men from the bilges of the ship where they had gone to look for Mr. Soong. Certain newspapermen have not been heard of since yesterday morning and it is thought they are still waiting on the wharf at Chang waipang.

MOTOR LAUNCH TRICK.

The truth of the matter is (the man is quicker than the eye) that a game of hodge-podge with motor launches was responsible for the trick. The greeters, or part of them at least, were lured onto a dozen alight decorated boats while Mr. Soong escaped on a plain old tug. Immediately the officials boarded the decoy boats the skippers pulled out in mid-stream and slipped coils as to where they would go. A dispatch has been received from one party which ended somewhere in Chekiang Province and others were reported of the Wosung breakwater about noon yesterday.

C.R.S.W.

The Soong opposition claims that these disappearing acts are more apropos with stage settings while supporters state that he who dodges quickest lives longest. Both viewpoints have their merits, but in the interests of all concerned, it is suggested that a Committee For The Reliability of Soong Welcomers be formed with all haste to care for the families of the missing while the welcomers are "unavoidably detained."

MISS WILSON'S LAPSE

BEATEN BY TITLE HOLDER

POOR DISPLAY

New York, Sept. 1.
Starting a warm favourite, as a result of her brilliantly consistent play in the last few days, Miss Enid Wilson, the British challenger for the U. S. women's golf championship, was surprisingly defeated in the semi-final to-day.

Miss Wilson's conqueror was Miss Virginia van Wic, the holder of the title, and she not only won, but ended the match on the thirteenth green.

Although Miss van Wic is the holder of the title, few believed that she could put a stop to Miss Wilson's championship ambitions, and, in point of fact, Miss Wilson defeated herself, lapsing amazingly from her standard of the last few days.

BAD LAPSE.

The match was played at Exmoor, Illinois, in fiercely hot weather without a breath of wind to cool the atmosphere. Two thousand spectators followed the game and were shocked by Miss Wilson's unexpectedly poor display. She had previously played sixty-six consecutive holes with an aggregate score of seven under par! But she could produce nothing like that brilliant form to-day. She took 44 strokes on the outward journey, which was five over par, a long way the worst round in the championship.

WEAK PUTTING.

Miss Wilson was weak in her putting and seemed quite unable to keep away from the hazards.

Miss van Wic, on the other hand, played excellent golf, particularly on the greens, holing out some long putts. She had a card of thirty-seven for the first nine holes and was six up at the turn.

Miss Wilson showed slight improvement on the homeward journey, but could not reduce the margin and the match ended early.

OVER-PRACTICE.

In an interview afterwards, Miss Wilson attributed her defeat to over-practice. "I practised with my irons for three hours yesterday and wore myself out. I could not hit with my irons at all to-day."

Miss van Wic meets Miss Helen Hicks, the ex-holder, in an all-American final.

Miss Hicks beat Miss Maureen Orent by six and four in the other semi-final.—Reuter.

THE PREMIER'S HOLIDAY

London, Sept. 1.
The Prime Minister (Mr. Ramsay MacDonald) who is the guest of Lord Londonderry at Mount Stewart, Northern Ireland, will to-morrow visit Ulster to start the trophy race before leaving Ireland in the evening.

Judging from the speeds at the trial runs at Ards Circuit, an extremely close and exciting contest is expected. Over 10,000 racing enthusiasts from all over the British Isles and from the continent have been attracted to Belfast by it.—British Wireless.

NEW MENACE TO FOOCHOW

ENVELOPING ATTACK BY COMMUNISTS

ALARMING CHANGE IN SITUATION

A HIGHLY CRITICAL SITUATION HAS SUDDENLY DEVELOPED IN THE VICINITY OF FOOCHOW AS THE RESULT OF A RENEWED ASSAULT BY THE COMMUNISTS, WHO APPEAR TO BE CARRYING EVERYTHING BEFORE THEM.

Considerable anxiety is now felt in Foochow itself, a marked change of atmosphere having occurred after the reassuring messages from the "war zone" on Thursday.

The exact state of affairs is still rather obscure, but there now appears to be little doubt that the Communists have captured Yenping and are now seriously threatening Kienningfu, carrying out a sort of enveloping movement with Foochow as the final objective.

Meanwhile, some surprise has been occasioned by the departure, in the midst of this more alarming news, of the Japanese cruiser, Isuzu.

The cruiser stemmed out from Pagoda Anchorage last evening. Its destination is not known. Meanwhile, there are reports that three Japanese destroyers have been ordered to Foochow by the Japanese Navy Office, but no confirmation has been received.

HEAVY FIGHTING.

Reliable reports received in the Colony this morning state that very heavy fighting took place yesterday afternoon between the XIXth Route Army and the Communists outside Yenping, which seems to have fallen to the Reds at about ten o'clock in the morning.

A swift surprise raid was simultaneously carried out against Kienningfu, to the north-east of Yenping, and the situation there is reported to be critical, the government forces there being only about one thousand strong.

FREEDOM OF PRESS

INSTRUCTIONS FROM NANKING

PROTECTION OF JOURNALISTS

Nanking, Sept. 2.
The Executive Yuan has instructed the Ministry of War and the Ministry of the Interior to circularise all grades of army organisations and local governments, enjoining them to extend full protection to newspapermen, and to newspaper enterprises.

The Executive Yuan's instructions refer to the complaints of arbitrary treatment of journalists by local officials and emphasise that the Articles of the Provisional Constitution stipulate freedom of speech and the safety of persons.

The instructions appear to be a sequel to recent incidents in several parts of China, including Canton, when journalists who have offended local officials have been executed.

ENGLISH AMAZON IN MOORISH RANKS

Captured by Arab Sheik 13 Years Ago

An English amazon fought the front ranks of the Moroccan tribes who have just given up their desperate struggle against the French troops in the Atlas Mountains, according to the newspaper. Ordre, which adds that the intrepid horsewoman, who is named Helen Parsons and now aged 36, was captured 13 years ago by an Arab sheik while making an excursion trip in Southern Morocco.

Miss Parsons fell in love with her captor at first sight, married him and became converted to Islam. She is now the mother of three children and took a prominent part in the fighting in the Rif region in 1925.

In the course of the recent fighting in the Atlas Mountains, her husband was severely wounded which increased her hostility towards the French.

FRENCH PAPER AND THE FAR EAST

JAPAN MASTER OF SITUATION

Paris, Aug. 28.
While commenting editorially upon the developments of the Sino-Japanese dispute, the Paris paper Le Journal writes this morning: "It is a fact that the Far Eastern conflict became a case since the Western Powers ceased to deal with the question."

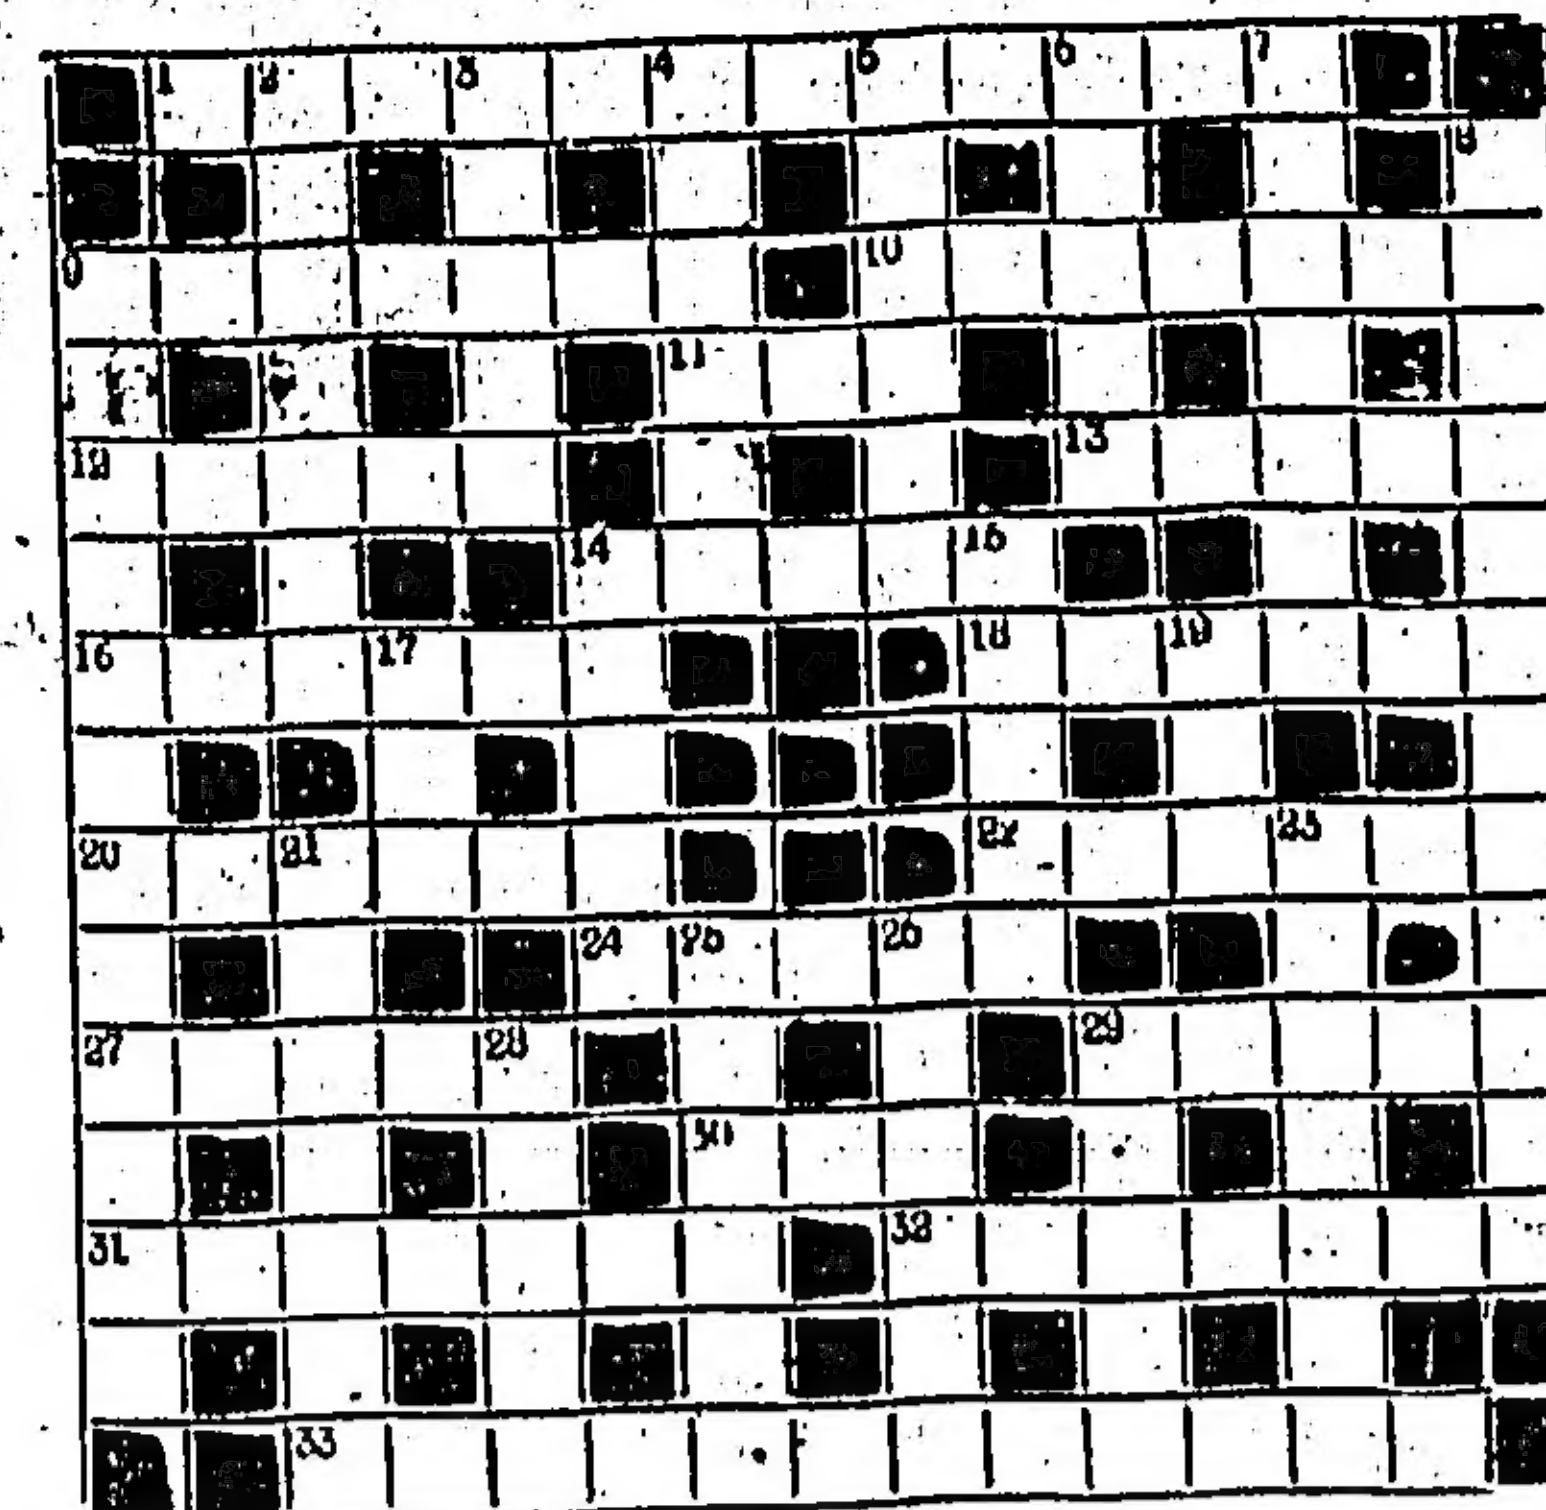

"As a result, the paper goes on, 'is entirely different from ours, and it is impossible for us to understand the political and diplomatic conceptions of the Orientals.'"

"Circles well versed in the situation assure us that the failure of the League of Nations did not increase, in the Far East, the prestige of Western and American civilization, fearing the political and diplomatic separation of Asia from the rest of the world."

"At any rate, it is certain," the paper concludes, "that Far Eastern policy in the coming years will be guided by Japan, who is master of the situation."—Reuter.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By Alicia Hart.

Stand on both feet this summer! Don't shift your weight from one foot to the other because one or both of them hurt.

Your feet need special attention when the days and the sidewalks are hot. If you would walk with a light, buoyant step and trip the light fantastic when the stars shine down on some all fresco dance place, then give your feet the attention they deserve!

Tired, aching feet will be greatly revived by a soaking in salt and water. Use about a cupful of salt to two gallons of water and soak your feet for at least half an hour. Then rinse them.

Vinegar baths are soothing to feet that are worn out and tired and hot. Use one-half cup of vinegar to a gallon of luke warm water. Rinse your feet with clear water afterward.

Drying your feet properly is half the battle. Be sure there is no dampness left on them when you have finished with the towel. Drying between each toe, separately, is important.

If you have small callouses on your heels and bottoms of your feet, use a piece of pumice stone on them after each soaking. In time, the pumice treatment will

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

One way to fix a habit is to prohibit it. Never mind all the psychological wherefores that lie behind the truth of this statement. The fact remains.

Take for instance Jimmy, who fell into the habit of putting his feet against the wall and pushing his bed on its rollers as far into the middle of the room as it would go.

The third night his daddy went in and smacked him, rolled him back to place and threatened a good whacking if it ever happened again.

Spanking No Use

But Jimmy didn't mind getting spanked. He wasn't afraid of anything much and he had a very strong will for a child of four. So he did it again and got punished. This time he did some thinking.

The next day his mother heard the bed, as usual, scoting across the floor. She went up to find Jimmy fully dressed in his bed, or rather out of it now, pushing it back to place and ready to do it all over.

"You mustn't do that again, Jimmy. You mark the wallpaper kicking it that way."

"Jimmy regarded the wallpaper. Her appeal was lost because the room could have been papered in flour sacks and he wouldn't have noticed or cared. What was wallpaper that everybody was so careful about?

But he stopped.

Experiment Works

One night grandma stayed with him while his parents went out.

"Jennie, I had a time," she said later. "Jimmy kept pushing his bed with his feet and —"

"I know all about it," said Jennie grimly. "The little rascal! He was just taking advantage of you. I thought he'd forgotten that habit."

"There is something funny about children. If you want him to stop it why don't you allow him to do it until he's tired?"

"And ruin the paper?"

"All right. You do have some good ideas sometimes. Maybe it will work, but I don't know why."

The next day she called Jimmy. "See here," she said. "I've fixed this for you. Now push all day if you like."

Jimmy "pushed" about a dozen times. Then he went out and got on his tricycle. Once or twice in the week he pushed his bed at night. His father promised to let him alone. The next week once, and then never again. The impulse or urge, whatever had prompted, had worn itself out.

And to make the callouses disappear.

Corns and bunions should be treated by a foot specialist. There are corn and bunion plasters which you can wear to keep them from hurting while you walk. Never cut corns yourself!

Clean stockings each and every morning are most important to ideal foot comfort. It seems unbelievable that many girls wear their hose the second day without washing. That's a big mistake! Be sure that yours are clean every morning.

For the LOVE of EVE by Lucy Walling

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY

EVE DAYLESS, pretty assistant to EARLE HAINES, advertising manager of Hainey's department store, married DICK RADER, a construction superintendent. They keep their marriage secret. Dick opposes Eve's continued employment but she is determined to go on working.

On her wedding night Eve is sent to New York to meet FREDERICK CAITEL, dress buyer. There Eve meets THORON HEECE, who is much attracted by her. She visits HENRY PRENTISS, former schoolmate, who is playing the stock market.

A week later Eve returns to Lake City to find a new copy writer, MONA ALLEN, at the office. Eve and Dick take an apartment in an old-fashioned house. Wear from working overtime at the office, Eve arrives there one evening to find a note telling her Dick has gone to a meeting. There is a knock at the door.

CHAPTER XI

The knock on the door was repeated. "Who's there?" Eve called firmly, her voice concealing her nervousness.

"Mrs. Brooks," a cheery voice responded.

Eve opened the door to allow her to enter. "We are having a little bridge party in Miss McElhinney's room," Mrs. Brooks explained. "We'd like to have you join us. There are just three of us—Miss McElhinney, Miss Leeds and myself."

Eve had seen the two school-teachers who had rooms on the floor above—fluffy little Dorothy McElhinney who left a trail of spicily perfume behind her in the hall and Abigail Leeds, precise and intellectual looking, who seemed always laden with books and papers.

It would serve Dick right, Eve told herself, if he found her absent when he returned. And, though she was tired, she thought the evening with her new neighbours might prove entertaining and make her feel less lonely than if she stayed in her own apartment.

"Just give me 10 minutes," she smiled, "and I'll be with you."

The effect of the bright frock she chose and the carefully applied make-up tended to lift her spirits and already she felt less weary as she made her way up the long flight of stairs to Miss

McElhinney's open door. The three women sat about a marble topped table with cards spread out before them. Mrs. Brooks hastened to introduce Eve. "Sit down," urged Miss McElhinney. "We were just playing 'crazy bridge' while we waited for you. I'm so glad you came up. We thought you might prefer a little game with us to spending the evening alone."

Eve graciously took her place. But she was disturbed. What did Miss McElhinney mean? Was there more to it? How did that girl know Dick was to be absent all evening? Had he told her? This rekindled her attention against Dick and her attention wandered from the game.

"Your turn, Mrs. Rader," snapped the young teacher as Eve permitted her eyes to wander over the room.

"Forgive me," she asked. "I was just admiring the furnishings."

"I'm glad you like the room," said Mrs. Brooks. "Just before Miss McElhinney came here I discarded the bed and worked out on an idea of my own. I bought a good spring and had legs put on it. Then I bought a mattress and some chintz and fixed up that studio couch. It makes the room look more like a living room and it's ever so comfortable."

Eve felt she was a stupid bridge partner, but she did not care.

She returned home soon after midnight, thinking she would find Dick there before her. Indeed, she had lingered a little upstairs to give him plenty of time to return. Perhaps it would do him good to come home and find her away.

But Dick was not there. The place seemed dismal in spite of the bright new paint and pretty furnishings. Eve stood at the sink and looked with dismay at the stack of unwashed dishes. She took an apron from a hook behind the kitchen screen and was about to put it on. Then she hung it away again. She would leave the dishes until morning. She would get up early and wash them. She was sleepy, tired and cross, and decided to go to bed. She had not enjoyed the bridge game and was aggrieved that Dick could find pleasure in an evening spent away from her. If he was beginning so early in their marriage to find diversion elsewhere, what could it mean except that he was tiring of his home?

Eve found, however, that she was too tired and nervous to go to sleep. She tossed restlessly from side to side for an hour or more. She was worried now about Dick. Perhaps something had happened to him. She felt sure that a lodge meeting would be over before midnight. The last time she looked at her alarm clock it was a quarter after one. Then, presently, she slept.

She awoke to the sound of the brick strolling of Chan's old-fashioned razor. She had argued with him about the time consumed by this task but he merely laughed, his eyes twinkling. Well, she would buy him a new razor. Christmas would serve as an excuse. Bixby's had advertised a tricky new safety razor with gold trimmings. She wasn't going to have that ugly leather strap hanging in her bathroom.

After a little the fragrance of coffee drifted in from the kitchen. Eve remembered the unwashed dishes and reluctantly got out of bed. For the first time since her marriage she almost wished that she had given up her work at Bixby's as Dick had asked her to do. It would be pleasant to stay at home to-day.

She found Dick cheerful but hurried. He did not wait to eat breakfast. "Have to scurry," he said, hastily draining a cup of coffee. "I'm late. I'll grab a sandwich somewhere if I can find time for it after the work is under way." Then he kissed her absentmindedly and was gone.

He had made no explanation of his absence the night before and her pride had prevented her from questioning him. Hurt and indignant, Eve made some toast and poured a cup of the now lukewarm coffee. But she could not eat. Swiftly she cleared the table and washed last night's dishes, but in spite of her haste she was a half hour late in reaching the office.

"Oh, Miss Dayless!" Mona Allen called to her as she entered. "Mr. Barnes has been looking everywhere for you."

Eve ignored this thrust. Arlene, emerging from Barnes' office a few minutes later, handed Eve some proofs to correct. Fastened to them with a paper clip was a hastily pencilled note from Arlene. "Get these out of the way as quickly as possible," it read. "His highness is wild about something."

Later Eve and Arlene speculated on the cause of Barnes' display of temper—a thing most unusual for him.

"I think Mr. Bixby's been taking a hand in running the office again," Arlene confided. "I know he thinks expenses in our department are higher than they need to be and higher than the volume of this year's Christmas selling warrants. Wonder what the outcome will be! Barnes was on the point of resigning last year and he only agreed to stay on condition that Mr. Bixby promised a hands-off policy toward the advertising office. Sometimes I think Mr. Bixby wouldn't care much if Barnes did resign. He might get a new manager who would work for less and wouldn't object to his suggestions."

All this was food for thought for Eve and she renewed her efforts to make good in a conspicuous way. If Earle Barnes resigned or if he were forced to quit, perhaps Mr. Bixby would put her in charge of the department. While she had, from the first, hoped that eventually she would receive this promotion, she had not expected that it might come about so soon. But why not, she argued with herself. Several of the specialty shops in Lake City had women advertising managers.

Eve did not tell Dick about this possibility. She suspected that he would not like it. Oh, he would be proud of her ability, of course; but he would not approve of her going into anything which was certain to take so much of her time and interest. Nevertheless she resolved that after the holidays, whether Dick approved the step or not, she would begin to attend night school again and review the course she had taken in advertising. She wondered, too, what salary Mr. Bixby would be likely to pay her. Not so much—not nearly so much as Barnes was getting—but considerably more than she now received. And, characteristically, Eve began to plan what she would do with this added money.

She hurried through her work that day, determined to get home on time. She longed for Dick's arms around her. Longed for this odd, silent barrier that suddenly had come between them to be cleared away.

But Dick was not to be surprised or wheedled into an explanation of his absence the night before. When she mentioned that she had been invited to Miss McElhinney's room for a game of bridge he asked absently if she had enjoyed it. Later when she asked, making her voice as casual as possible, if he had had a nice time at the lodge meeting he replied briefly, "Oh, enough," and immediately changed the subject.

Aside from that—he was—even more considerate than usual, suggesting that they should meet down town after work that evening, have dinner and perhaps go somewhere to dance or see a movie. And on this occasion he was so devoted, so like the Dick he had been before and immediately after their marriage, that Eve was ashamed of her suspicions. Next evening he called up short-

INSPECTOR INJURED.

ACCIDENT NEAR WATER POLICE STATION

Inspector L. P. Lane, of the Hongkong Police, is now lying a patient in the Kowloon Hospital as a result of a motor mishap yesterday morning. He is suffering from a dislocated collar bone and cuts to the right leg.

Inspector Lane, who is Divisional Inspector South, was driving a new U.S.A. motor cycle combination down the slope of the Water Police Station to Salisbury Road and on reaching the bottom of the incline, he noticed a car coming from the direction of the Star Ferry wharf. To avoid a collision he applied the brake but it is understood, his foot slipped. He swerved to the left but apparently did not turn sharply enough and the car struck the rear of the cycle broadside on.

Inspector Lane was thrown. Slight damage was suffered by the motor cycle which was later taken back to the Station.

The car is owned by the local solicitor, Mr. J. M. D'Almada Remedios, and his wife was driving at the time.

KULING CONCLAVE.

POLITICAL LEADERS TO SEE CHIANG

Nanking, Sept. 1.
It is understood that Government leaders, including Mr. Wang Ching-wei, Mr. Sun Fo and Mr. T. V. Soong, are proceeding to Kuling shortly after Mr. Soong's arrival here, for a conference with General Chiang Kai-shek. The conference is expected to begin on Monday, September 4.—Reuter.

ly before the store closed to tell Eve he would not be home for dinner and that she should not wait up for him as he might be rather late. Immediately Eve's suspicions were aroused anew. His explanation for this absence was that all the executives in charge of the construction job on which he was engaged were having dinner together to be followed by a conference concerning their work.

She went home, locked the door, and after making herself a cup of tea and a sandwich, turned off the lights in the living room, shut herself up in the bedroom and tried to read herself to sleep.

It was nearly one o'clock before Dick came home. Eve, who was wide awake, closed her eyes and pretended that she was asleep, though she scorned herself for pretence and was furious at Dick for making the pretence seem necessary. What was their marriage coming to, she asked herself over and over again. (To be Continued.)

Germ Acid

Germ-Acid causes tooth decay and gum diseases. It forms from fermenting food particles which the toothbrush cannot reach. It acts stealthily and often leads to ill health. But Germ-Acid can be combated scientifically. Squibb Dental Cream neutralizes it, as it contains Squibb Milk of Magnesia, an antacid! Squibb's is safe in the tenderest mouth, it cleans beautifully and everyone likes its pleasant flavor. Teach him to use it regularly—don't give Germ-Acid a chance.

WORLD CRISIS
A WAY OUT

By FREDERICK COPE, A.M.I.E.E.

Mr. Cope's striking articles on the world economic crisis which were recently published in the Hongkong Telegraph are now available in pamphlet form. One of the features, repaying study, is the close similarity between the plan of reform suggested by this local writer, and certain aspects of the Roosevelt recovery programme. The author's ideas are naturally far too advanced for active promotion at the present time, but they are particularly interesting in view of the fact that President Roosevelt, in striking out on a path of his own, has travelled in the same direction.

The pamphlet is one of forty-four pages and can be obtained from the South China Morning Post at a cost of...

NAZI POLICY

HITLER ACCLAIMED AT NUREMBURG

Nuremberg, Sept. 1.
The claim that the whole German nation supported the Nazi movement, which had now become the German Reich, was made in a long proclamation read on behalf of Chancellor Hitler at the opening of the Nazi Congress here to-day.

In a flag-docked hall in the presence of a huge audience, Herr Hitler was received, with other leaders, with tremendous enthusiasm.

The proclamation, however, gave little enlightenment as to Germany's future plans and did not refer to foreign affairs at all.

But it recapitulated the evils of Marxism and declared that Germany at the beginning of the year had escaped the Bolshevik terror by a hair's breadth. It foreshadowed the continuance of the fight against Communism until "the poisoners of the German people" were wiped out.

Tremendous efforts would be demanded to combat the most important problem of unemployment.

The parliamentary democratic principle was definitely repudiated by the proclamation, which declared that nations are best served and the will of the country best declared through its best brains.

Finally the proclamation hinted at the reduction of the number of federal states, declared the German people and Nazism, not states, constituted the sole support of the Reich.

Hero Of Conference.
The new hero of the Nazi conference which will reach its climax on Sunday will be Herr Hofer, who was released by a trick from the Innsbruck prison, in Austrian Tyrol.

He is arriving here to-morrow by air from Italy with his rescuers.

Hofer narrowly escaped recapture. An Austrian sentry riddled his car with bullets, one of which found a billet in Hofer's knee. The party abandoned the car and struggled over rough mountain tracks, Hofer being carried on his rescuers' shoulders.

His wounded knee was bound with handkerchiefs and a trouser leg.

The fugitives spent a night in a plantation of dwarf pine trees.
Their pursuers repeatedly passed close by.—Reuter.

GRIM INDICTMENT.

List Of Murders By Nazi Party.

London, Sept. 1.
A grave indictment of the Nazi regime is contained in "The Brown Book of German Terror," published to-day, with the name of Einstein as chairman of the international committee which gives the book authority.

The publication tabulates without comment a list of 250 murders carried out by the Nazis since the beginning of March and contains photographs of alleged German brutalities, including flogging of enemies of the Nazi movement.

The book alleges, also that the firing of the Reichstag was crudely planned and deliberately carried out on the order of Herr Goebbels, Hitler's Minister of State.—Reuter.

Guilder's Strength.

Amsterdam, Sept. 1.
The safety of the gold standard in Holland was further emphasised to-day, according to banking circles, by the increasing gold stock in the Netherlands Bank and the renewed strength of the guild-er compared with sterling.

The recent years' accumulated deficits which amounted to 555-000,000 on Jan. 1, 1933, will probably be consolidated by a new loan, while it is anticipated that the deficit for the current year, 500,000,000 guilders, will be covered by economics and a compulsory loan in equal proportions.—Reu-

BODY-LINE BOWLING PROBLEM

Solved by Natives of Lijou

Sydney, N.S.W.
In the island of Lijou, near Noumea, they have solved the body-line problem.

Some years ago the natives were taught cricket by an Englishman, and it is now their chief sport.

Fast bowling among them is really throwing, and is very fast. But if a batsman is hit on the body he is entitled to give the bowler a thrashing. If he cannot do it, the whole team is prepared to carry out the punishment.

Any ball that hits the batsman on the thigh above the height of the stumps is a no-ball. There can be no doubt in the matter, for the dark skin remains white for a minute after it is hit.

On one occasion, a cricket match at Lijou, the barracking would have astonished Larwood. It was provided by an organised choir that was highly vocal and emphatic.

A batsman was hit on the ribs by a fast bowler, and he fell like a stone. Long and deep were the groans of the barrackers. He was up in a minute, ran after the bowler, caught him, and gave him an unmerciful thrashing. Needless to say, the man did not play again that day.—Reuter.

BLOOD FEUD

HAS A DRAMATIC CLIMAX

WITNESS KILLED

Belgrade.
The indefinite intensity of an Albanian blood feud is illustrated in dramatic fashion by the following events which have occurred in Prizren.

The climax came in the local court when a revolver shot ripped through counsel's questions and the chief witness, one Mak-sut Ibrahimovitch, fell dying to the floor.

The murderer, who was a neighbour of the fatally wounded witness, had seized his opportunity of settling a blood feud in public. He was at once arrested and put in a cell.

There he offered a reward of 25 to the first warder who brought him the "good news" of his victim's death.

That was two days ago. He has heard the "good news" now.

But, before he expired, Mak-sut Ibrahimovitch summoned his relatives to his bedside and made them take a vow to avenge his death by the assassination of his murderer—or, should he be "not available," one of his male issue.—Reuter.

The girl uses clothes and a line to get a husband and then uses a clothes line to keep him.

New headlights and fender lights harmonize with the general appearance. The new "V" type radiator with chrome grille is one of the new Buick's most striking appearance features. The chrome-plated synchronized twin horns are of the smart, elbow-type.

One of the most striking features of improvement in the 1933 Buick is the double-drop frame with X-type cross member. This provides a very rigid frame construction for the Buick Sealed Chassis and permits a lower mounting of the body. It also allows the use of soft, resilient rubber in the new five-point mountings of the Buick power plant.

INFANT AND CHILD WELFARE

THE YEAR'S WORK

CONFERENCES REPORTS

London.

All kinds of conferences have been taking place recently. Two of them have been health conferences.

1. A Conference on Maternity and Child Welfare organized by the National Association for the Prevention of Infant Mortality.
2. A Conference on Birth Control organized by the National Birth Control Association.

At the former Conference, Sir George Newman, Chief Medical Officer to the Ministry of Health, in his Presidential address said that 41,939 fewer infants had died during 1931 than in 1900. He attributed this chiefly to the general provision of pure drinking water all over the country—and to the practice of birth control.

"The suggestion that the weaklings and defectives should be 'let die' is inadmissible," he said. "We have saved in quantity and we must cultivate quality."

He advocated combination of State work and voluntary work in all matters of care for children until school days begin in an effort to secure the highest possible standard of national health.

EMIGRATION TO S. AFRICA

MOVE BY GERMANY'S JEWISH DOCTORS

Pretoria.

Following on the anti-Jewish policy of the German Government there are indications that quite a number of Jewish doctors in Germany are contemplating starting practices in South Africa. A number of applications have already been received from Jewish doctors deprived of a living in Germany by some of the Universities, by the South African Medical Council and the Department of Public Health.

These applications have been under consideration for some time and present a problem of more than usual importance for, apart from the consideration that the medical profession in the Union is numerically well served, the S. A. Medical and Pharmacy Act demands that every practitioner in South Africa shall hold certain specified qualifications which include South African, British and Italian degrees.

The possession of a German degree does not entitle a doctor to practise in South Africa and this means that if German doctors from Germany wish to emigrate to the Union they must first obtain the necessary certificates.—Reuter.

Professor Julian Huxley, opening the second conference said "A hundred years hence we shall look back on present methods of birth control as a motorist looks back upon the old high bicycle."—Reuter.

LEAGUE SUCCESS

The clash of conflicting national interests brought the World Economic Conference to an end in a manner which may prove either temporary or final, and the fate of the Disarmament Conference still hangs in the balance. Yet it is a considerable consolation for those whose faith in internationalism persists, in spite of the dark hours through which we are passing, to note that the League of Nations is still a potent instrument for the settlement of disputes that lead or are likely to lead to war. The two latest instances of its efficiency in this respect are to be found in South America. Leticia is a small town on the upper reaches of the Amazon. It was allotted to Colombia by a recent treaty, settling boundary disputes between that country and Peru. Some Peruvian troops seized it, and war between the two countries seemed imminent; and in fact fighting began. Appeal was at once made to the League. To cut a long story short, by the good offices of the Council, the fighting was brought to an end, and a League Commission was sent out to take over the administration of Leticia for a period not to exceed one year. Meanwhile the matters in dispute are being amicably argued and settled. A harder case was presented by the dispute between Bolivia and Paraguay as to their respective rights in the Chaco region that lies between them. The principal cause of the trouble seems to lie in the desire of Bolivia, which is a land-locked country, to get a port on the Paraguay River and so obtain direct access to the sea. The quarrel has had sporadic outbursts for some years past. In 1928 serious fighting took place, but it was then stopped by the combined efforts of the League and the United States of America. About a year ago the fighting began again, and at last Paraguay formally declared war. Incidentally it is interesting to note that this is the only formal war that has taken place since the Peace Treaties were signed. Once again the services of the League were requisitioned; and though there was considerable delay, a truce was finally accepted by both parties and another League Commission has been sent to the spot. Enquiries will be made and the arguments heard under the general guidance of the League's Commission. Unfortunately, the only conclusion to be derived from these successes is that the influence of the League varies with the status of the countries concerned in a dispute. The so-called great Powers are those least amenable to moral pressure. It is not altogether a happy reflection.

NOTES OF THE DAY

WAR DEBTS & ARMAMENTS

America's abandonment of the policy of linking war debts and disarmament, meaning the employment of a war debt concession bait to induce the Allies to disarm, may or may not be of importance. That depends upon the motivation. The situation in Europe is not materially altered. War debts have long ceased to have value as a lever. Whatever the feeling in the Middle West, Europe has cast war debts and reparations into the limbo, from which there is no return. Importance rests in Mr. Norman Davis's statement only if it indicates the tacit acquiescence of the United States in this attitude. Europe is no longer troubled by war debts. Its only concern now is the fear of the development of political conflicts threatening war. It will need something far more effective than the war debt bogey to produce disarmament to-day.

MISS WILSON'S FAILURE

Again Miss Enid Wilson has been disappointed. Recognised as practically unbeatable in England and generally regarded as the leading lady golfer of the world to-day, the American title eludes her once again. Her own explanation is probably the correct one. Her effort to win was too determined. It carried her to excesses in practice and breakdown came at the important moment. After her brilliant displays to reach the semi-final, the result of her contest with Miss Virginia van Wie was definitely anti-alimax.

P.W.D. METHODS

Public works estimates are never quite what they seem. That has been shown year after year when results have been compared with promises. Nevertheless, it is somewhat strange, to say the least, to find that while the P.W.D. is ostensibly embarking upon new works likely to cost about six lakhs, other works provided for in the Budget last year are not being undertaken, if our report regarding the new Kowloon Magistrate is accurate. According to our informant, work is not to be started until next year, despite the fact that provision was made in the Public Works Extraordinary programme for the expenditure of $120,000 on this project in 1933. The little windfall to Kowloon which seemed to derive from the supplementary estimates shrinks a little.

WEATHER PRECEDENTS

If the weather follows precedent, the Colony is in for a swamping during September. The interesting figures supplied by Mr. Jeffries yesterday—detailing the facts about the vagaries of August, showed that after extremely dry Augusts in the past, September supplied a remedy. Over thirty inches fell in September, 1906, and nearly twenty in September, 1914. If this means that September rains increase in proportion to the aridity of August, Mr. Tickle will be supplied with water enough and to spare.

FUTURE OF NATIONALISM

The political observer who wishes to assess the future of nationalism as a guiding force in the relations of sovereign states is confronted by a most striking and curious contrast. On the one hand so many of the most important countries in the world are pursuing a vigorously nationalist policy that the outlooker might be justified in concluding that never before has the repute of nationalism stood so high as it does to-day. And yet such a conclusion would be the precise and exact opposite of the truth. There is an innumerable majority of the world's politicians who appear to regard nationalism and self-sufficiency as the solution of all difficulties; yet there is scarcely a political thinker who, when he comes to write of nationalism, does not load it with abuse.

CAUSE OF WAR

Sir Norman Angell, for example, considers it a prime cause of war; Mr. Harold Laski is its confirmed opponent; for serious journalists like Mr. Ivor Brown think it largely a sham, and a destructive sham at that; while the recent motion carried by the Oxford Union, and emphatically endorsed by the debating societies of nearly every other university in England, may be read as at least as much a denunciation of nationalism as a declaration of pacifism. In these circumstances, which will actually prove the stronger, nationalism's triumphant possession of the hold, or its intellectual discredit? Defenders of nationalism may point out that practically all the most serious criticism of nationalism as a policy comes from Britain alone, and that its world significance may be discounted for that reason. But in certain aspects of politics Britain is not infrequently antithetical to world opinion. Both the American and the French Revolutions were based upon the teachings of John Locke.

LIGHT FROM JAPAN

By E. L. ALLEN

It was a spring morning of 1905, and a young farmer kept watch and prayed by a wayside shrine in Japan. Three days, and three nights had he been there, and all that time without food. He had been without food, partly because he had been so intent on his spiritual quest that he had no time to think of such matters, but partly also because he had nothing in the world with which to buy himself a meal. He had not always been so. Time was when he had been a colonist-farmer in Hokkaido, the northern island of Japan. But he grew weary there of the struggle for existence, because it seemed to him little better than the struggle of one man to win an advantage over his neighbour. The future held only two possibilities for him, and he had no love for either. He might sink to be a tenant on someone else's land, but he was too independent for that. Or he might rise and become a landowner, a capitalist himself—but for that he was altogether unwilling. So he had left his farm and come to Kyoto, seeking what he should do.

"IF YOU WOULD LIVE—"

It was the time of the war with Russia. The Russian armies were being beaten in the field, but Russian books were pouring into Japan. On a book-stall in Kyoto, Tenko Nishida found a translation of Tolstol. He opened it and read, 'If you would live, die!' Strange words they were, but they went like fire through his brain. What did they mean for him?

He had not long to wait before his question was answered. It was answered by a telegram which announced to him the impending bankruptcy of his farm, and urged him to go back and save it. He went back, but not to save the farm. Rather did it seem to him at this moment that poverty was God's messenger to him. If she brought him in one hand, she would give him freedom with the other. So he gave over to his family everything that he possessed, and set out again, penniless, but at liberty, on the road of life. He came to this wayside shrine and prayed; he was resolved not to leave it till he had found whether God's will for him was life or death.

Dawn came and with it, on the still air, an infant's cry. He sprang to his feet as he heard it, like a man to whom a great joy, has come. 'Where the child cries, he said to himself, there is a mother to hear his cry. So is it with men and God. I will go forth with men and God, wherever and serve men's need, wherever it is to be found. And as for my own wants—well, I will leave them in the hands of God!'

He walked down the road, and came to a farmhouse. A woman opened to his knock. 'Without a word, he walked in, took the broom which was standing in the corner, and fell to work. She looked at him in amazement. 'Are you mad?' she asked, 'I shall not pay you!' 'I do not want payment!' was the instant reply. 'Then why do you do it?' 'For God's sake.' She saw he was hungry, made him sit down, and brought him food. So for three days he worked on the farm, and then prepared to go on. But as he went to go, the woman fell at his feet. 'I have sought for peace,' she cried, 'and never found it. You have found God, I can see. Tell me what your secret is.' So he told her his story. 'Submission to God and service without thought of reward—these,' he said, 'are the way of peace.' So she became his first disciple.

SIMPLICITY, PROVERITY, SERVICE.

After that, his life was the same, a life of service. Many thought him mad, as he went about doing whatever work was hard and unpleasant and neglected by everyone else. But the flame spread and others came to follow him. Some left all they possessed and others remained in their daily callings; but all alike bound themselves to give service and ask for nothing in return.

To-day, Tenko Nishida is one of the spiritual leaders of Japan. His services are in constant demand as lecturer, and his movement, known as Iitosen or the Garden of One Light, has wealthy patrons. But his personal rule of life is still simplicity, poverty, and service.

The movement has its headquarters near Kyoto in what bears the beautiful name of 'The Forest of the Fountain of Light'. When I went there, a young member of the brotherhood was detailed to escort me to my train. We had an hour to wait at the station. I sat down and, succumbing to the July heat, was soon asleep. When I awoke, it was to find my guide at work. He had found a broom and swept the floor of the waiting-room; then he set to work with a pail of water. No one so much as thanked him for it, but what did that matter? He had seen what needed to be done and done it; the joy of service was its own reward.

WITHOUT CREED.

Iitosen has no creed and the minimum of organization. It is useless to ask how many members it has; they are careless of statistics and outward success. No man asks his neighbour what his religion is, but all join. Buddhist and Christian and Shintoist, in the worship of the Light. In the little shrine in Tenko Nishida's house, a light burns night and day and he who wishes to worship can go and pray before it. And the life of service? We speak to-day of 'sharing', but who shares as this man does? He says: 'If you have only a crust of bread, find one poorer than yourself and share it with him. And when that has gone, you can still stand by the wayside—and pray.'

Do you say that such a life is impossible? He smiles and answers that he has lived it now for 28 years. He is a married man himself, and whole families have followed him in this life. Do you say that if all were to accept it, society would break down? He answers that he asks no man to do as he has done. The Voice has spoken to him and he must obey; in a world that is ruled by greed and violence, he must make his protest against both, he must live by non-possession and non-resistance. But how that Voice will speak to others, is not for him to say. 'Be true neither to me nor to my teaching, but to the Light within thy soul!'

"We should have invited some friends along. I got kinda tired just sitting here looking at you."

BULLS AND INNERS

From the Office Butts

The latest thing in women's wear. Women

Fools rush in where wise men fear to wed.

Edward Kelly's girl is so conceited that she wears a lightning conductor.

Instinct is what tells a woman she is right whether she is or not. Conscience is what tells us we are going to be found out.

Although bath water may be used for the garden during the shortage, the soapy taste imparted to the lettuce has hitherto proved an objection. We now learn that a well-known Peak resident has solved the problem by using glycerine and cucumber soap.

People who wish the thermometer would go down should put it in the refrigerator.

Why tantalising little things like white ants should exist, we really do not know.

"Vacuums," says a writer, "are wonderful things." Most people think there's nothing in them!

It may be owing to the hot weather, but a number of Peak ladies prefer to travel in the coolie seats of the Peak tram.

AN ADMIRAL'S PHILOSOPHY

PATRIOTISM NOT SENTIMENT

LOOKING AFTER OUR RIGHTS

Durban.

"I view with some apprehension the gathering storm clouds of further reduction, and disarmament—what British sailor wouldn't? We citizens of the British Empire have a great heritage as a Commonwealth of Nations won for us by our forefathers and I believe it is the job of every one of our citizens, male and female, to preserve and protect our possessions and our rights."

This was one of the many striking passages in a speech made by Vice-Admiral E.R.G.R. Evans, C.B., D.S.O., Commander-in-Chief of the Africa Station, who was in delightfully philosophical mood at a meeting of Durban Rotarians.

"Some people consider patriotism," he said, "to be merely a sentiment. My view is that patriotism towards the country of one's birth or adoption becomes one's bounden duty, otherwise one should get out and go elsewhere. Patriotism is a family business and I hate folks who won't fight for the family welfare."

He declared his religion to be that of the healthy primitive man. "The world is changing very rapidly and it is no good hanging back and being old fashioned," he said. "We want leaders, we want them badly and I sometimes fear that the Old Gang are suppressing our would-be leaders because of their modernity and because the Old Gang won't see that mass education must make for a constant change."

The Vice-Admiral went on to say that unconsciously he had divided his life into a series of principles, ideals, ambitions, likes and dislikes, and creeds. Here are some of his principles:—

I never owe money, except to the Admiralty and I always endeavour to repay hospitality—a very big job in this country where, from what I have seen, your hospitality is unbounded.

I do my utmost to give those around me a good time, provided they do their job efficiently and cheerfully.

I realise that by nature I am practical and rebellious and so I must have principles or come to grief.

But I have a very strong sense of duty to the great nation which employs me and this helps me to develop the principles which are sufficient for the day.—Reuter.

NEW POWERS FOR FIRE BRIGADE

Right to Search Ships for Dangerous Goods

An amendment to the Dangerous Goods Ordinance has been drafted and is published in to-day's issue of the Government Gazette.

The Ordinance, repeals and in effect re-enacts section 11 of the principal Ordinance, but extends the power of search therein contained to officers of the Fire Brigade acting under the authority of the Inspector General of Police, it having been found necessary to transfer certain duties of inspection to such officers.

The principal Ordinance as first enacted contained a power to make bye-laws for regulating the landing of dangerous goods and the mooring of ships on which such goods were carried. This power was later amended, and finally replaced by the power to make regulations which appear in the present section 5 (1) of the principal Ordinance. The section however governing penalties for breach of the regulations, retains substantially the form in which it was originally enacted, and provides for a penalty only in cases where goods are illegally moved, stored, shipped, landed, etc. Consequently no penalty is recoverable for a breach of regulations made, or of conditions of a licence issued, under section 5 (1) unless the breach also falls within section 7.

Section 3 of this Ordinance provides for a penalty for breach of the principal Ordinance, a regulation or condition of a licence in all cases where such provision has not already been made.

LESS SPORT PLEASE!

MORE THOUGHT FOR WORLD AFFAIRS

Cape Town.

A warning to South Africans to pay less attention to sport and more attention to the war drums that were rumbling again was sounded by Brigadier-General John Joseph Byron, C.M.G., D.S.O., in an address on "Peace in Our Time" to the Empire Group.

Brigadier-General Byron, who is now a Union legislator, has had a remarkable war career. He held various staff appointments in the Australian military forces, was attached with the United States Army in the Philippines War of 1899, served in the South African War when he was A.D.C. to Lord Roberts, commanded a mixed brigade in the German South West Africa campaign from 1914 to 1915 and served in Flanders.

"We are paying too much attention to pleasure and sport. We are carrying it too far. The newspapers and the public set too much store by sport and sportsmen. If we were to take a plebiscite to-day of the people we should send to a world conference I have no doubt that Bennis Oster and Donald McCord would represent South Africa and would sit in conference with Hobbs and Larwood (England) and Bobby Jones (U.S.A.)."

General Byron urged the public to focus a little attention on the Disarmament and Economic Conferences. While conferences were meeting and treaties, which after all were only scraps of paper, were being drawn up there was a lot of high explosive lying loose in Europe liable to be detonated at any moment. There was, for example, the friction between Germany and Poland over the Polish Corridor.—Reuter.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

YESTERDAY'S MARKET STEADY

According to Messrs. Swan, Culbertson and Fritz, the New York market was steady yesterday. Business done 1,220,000 shares. The Wall Street Journal report on yesterday's market: Preholiday trading was irregular and dull. People here attribute this to the record high London free gold price as due to hoarding and distrust of the currency of nations off the gold standard. This distrust is partly due to the removal of French/British exchange equalization funds, tourist demand for francs and London's purchase of short term French securities. Our New York Office cable (this morning): Stocks: The market was very dull but closed firm featured by oils. Wheat: The market is easier on preholiday dullness. Trade was light with new buyers holding off. The news is still constructive. Cotton: There was considerable buying for July from New Orleans attributed to Government agencies and steady demand here at 10 1/8 failed to stimulate the market. Two private reports show an increase over the Government's August estimate. Our New York Office cable (Last Night): Stocks: The market was dull but steady. Wheat: Liverpool colorless. Our market facing a three day holiday likely to hold steady. Constructive developments like bread flour demand and small receipts are expected to bring better prices next week. Cotton: A quiet preholiday market with little buying power in evidence and crop movement increasing without new incentive. The trend of the market appears lower. The Foreign Exchange markets will be opened to-day but closed on Monday. Notice: All major markets will be closed on Saturday and Monday, September 2 and 4, Labour Day holiday, therefore there will be no distribution of quotations on Monday and Tuesday. Orders received will be entered on Monday, execution at the opening of the markets on Tuesday. There will be no Night Service on Saturday and Monday nights.

WHAT IS TRADITION?

EXPLANATION TO BRITISH ASSN.

NEXT MONTH

London.

Many secrets of modern science will be revealed when the British Association meets in September at Leicester. The agenda paper for the meeting has some intriguing titles.

At the great opening meeting on September 6, Sir F. Gowland Hopkins will deliver an address on the chemical aspects of life. Lord Raglan, in his presidential address to the anthropology section, will answer the question "What is Tradition?"

Other subjects to be discussed are:—

Stuttering;
The Education of the parent;
The Growth of Population;
Regional planning;
Noise;
The Suez Canal.

But one of the main questions which will come under full review will be the topical one of—gold.

Professor J. H. Jones, in the Economic Science and Statistics section, will devote his presidential address to the gold standard, while one paper in the geology section will deal with "the possibility and desirability of greatly increasing the production of gold."—Reuter.

"DAY OF PEACE"

TO BE CELEBRATED ANNUALLY

NEW PROPOSAL

Jerusalem.

A proposal that an annual "Day of Peace" should be established throughout the world has been submitted to the Council of the League of Nations.

The proposal is that of a Jerusalem ex-serviceman, Mr. N. Avramyahu.

He suggests that a "Service of Peace" should be held on this appointed day, and that the same text should be used everywhere.

A signal for the beginning of the services could be given from Jerusalem, "the future sea of the League of Nations."

The memorandum drawn up by Mr. Avramyahu declares that the "Day of Peace" should be spent in prayer and celebration.

Mr. Avramyahu has already recommended the use of Hebrew as the language of international peace. He suggests that the League of Nations should standardise the word "Shalom" (peace) in its Hebrew pronunciation as the international greeting among all mankind.—Reuter.

COUNTY CRICKET NEARLY OVER

FINAL MATCHES

London, Sept. 1.
With the exception of one match—Essex v. Sussex which starts at Leyton to-morrow—the county cricket programme was completed to-day with five matches, only one of which produced a decisive result.

During next week the usual series of representative games will be played to bring the season to an end. Yorkshire will be engaged against the M.C.C. at England XI is meeting the West Indies at Folkestone; later Mr. H. D. G. Leveson-Gower's selected team will oppose the M.C.C. Australian team, and the Eastern Counties entertain the West Indies. Subsequently the West Indies will play their last match of the tour against Leveson-Gower's eleven, and the Champion County (Yorkshire) will play the Rest in the customary four-days match.

Hard wickets during the last three days were responsible for another big crop of runs. Six matches produced a dozen centuries and only four bowlers met with any sort of success.

5,792 RUNS SCORED.

Over 1,000 runs were scored in each of four encounters, and the whole programme saw 5,792 runs scored and only 164 wickets fall.

Surrey enjoyed the distinction of being the only team to win outright. They defeated Leicester by four wickets in a rather low scoring match.

Yorkshire wound up the season unimpressively. They were decisively beaten on the first innings by Worcester, who actually took 420 runs off the champions' attack. Yorkshire saved the game with ease despite being 197 runs in arrears.

In their return visit, Mitchell and Leyland became associated in a prolific partnership and at the close Yorkshire had scored 421 for 3.

KEEN CRICKET.

Notts and Somerset had a keen fight for first innings points, culminating in Notts winning by 24 runs.

Somerset held their own throughout the match. In an effort to force an outright win, Notts declared their second innings closed at 209 for 4, but Somerset easily held out and at the close had helped themselves to 138 without loss.

Lancashire received the dirty end of the stick when they met Derbyshire. The latter took first innings points by scoring 215 against the Lancastrians' 109, and then declared their second innings at 163 for 7, leaving Lancashire requiring 270 to win. When stumps were drawn the Red Roses had lost five wickets for 154 runs.

SARAZEN'S TRIBUTE TO PRINCE OF WALES

ROYAL INTEREST IN GOLF A BIG BENEFIT TO GAME.

Gene Sarazen, titleless but wreathed in smiles despite the disappointment he must inwardly have been feeling, arrived at New York in the Majestic after his trip to England with the Ryder Cup Team and his bid for the British Open Title.

"I wish America had a man like the Prince of Wales, who would take the interest in golf that your Prince does," said Gene to Reuter in a final chat before disembarking.

"Our galleries would be considerably swelled if we had such a man," he said, "and I think it's wonderful how the British Royal Family follow and support golf and other sports in England. I sure enjoyed my game with the Prince. He is a great fellow."

M.C.C. TEAM FOR INDIA

WELL BALANCED SIDE

B.H. VALENTINE AND LEVETT

W. H. Levett, the clever Kent wicket-keeper who plays deputy to Leslie Ames, and B. H. Valentine, who has been a prolific scorer for Kent this summer, are included in the M.C.C. cricket team, to visit India this winter.

The players invited are: D. R. Jardine (Captain), C. F. Walters (Worcester), B. H. Valentine (Kent), W. E. Wyatt (Warwick), W. H. Levett (Kent), Langridge, Jas (Sussex), Nichols (Essex), Verity (Yorkshire), Townsend (Derby), Bakewell (Northants), Clark (Northants), Gregory (Surrey), Paynter (Lancashire), Barstow (Gloucester), Ames (Kent), and A. N. Other.

Sarazen had nothing but praise for the St. Andrews course. "It is undoubtedly the finest course in the world," he said, "and I wish that every man who plays golf could play at St. Andrews once. It would be a real treat for him."

"As for the Royal and Ancient, I want to compliment the club for the wonderful, thorough way in which the Open was handled. It was a splendid job and I only hope our people in the States will take a pattern from the British methods when they arrange next year's U.S. Open," said Sarazen.

"Boy, I've had a wonderful trip. Everything was swell and I can't wait till I get back to England next year. I always look forward to my visits to the British Isles," said Sarazen.

"I'm definitely going over again in 1934 and I'm going all out to win both the British and the American titles."

AUSTRIA AND JAPAN.

"If the British Open is played first—something I should very much like to see—I am hoping to make a tour which will take me out to Australia and Japan, and then to England via Suez, for the British Championship."

"As for myself and this year's British Open, I have no regrets at losing. I took an eight at the fourteenth and was properly in the soup, but it was the first eight I have ever had in my career."

"I think British Golf has improved a lot," said Sarazen, "and your youngsters have come along well."

PLAY ON GREENS.

"As for Padham, I consider him the most promising player in England to-day and if he would only learn to play around the greens he would be unbeatable."

"The English are bad on the greens," he said. "This I think is partly due to the varied England weather which necessitates a change of one's game so frequently, and partly due to the fact that the English players use putters which are much too heavy."

"I think America won the Open because her players were better on the greens. In other words, the best putters won."

SARAZEN ON THE RYDER CUP.

Sarazen said he was pleased to feel the wind spring up during the Ryder Cup matches.

CARNERA TO FIGHT AGAIN

BOUT FIXED FOR OCTOBER 8

TO BE HELD IN ROME

Primo Carnera will defend his world heavyweight title for the first time against Paulino Uzcudun at Rome October 8, his manager, Louis F. Sorelli, has announced.

When the Italian Behemoth departed for Europe after he had knocked out Jack Sharkey in the sixth round at the Madison Square Garden Long Island arena June 29, there was a general prediction that he would bask in his glory until next year before risking his crown.

But Sorelli's announcement brought the comment from sports followers here that the Man Mountain would be risking little against the Basque Woodchopper.

A fight in Rome may be expected to bring a great outpouring of black shirts to see the first Italian ever to win the world title perform. Incidentally it should replenish Carnera's coffers. Just before his fight with Sharkey he filed a bankruptcy petition listing his liabilities at $59,828 and his assets at only $1,182.

SECOND RATER.

Uzcudun for some time has been ranked as a second rater as in his invasion of the United States last year he was beaten by King Levinsky, Mickey Walker, and the late Ernie Schnaf, none of them topnotchers.

In his latest appearance, Uzcudun, now in Spain, won an unpopular decision over Hans Schonrath, of Germany, in a 10 rounder at Seville and before that disposed of ageing Pierre Charles of Belgium. Uzcudun is known however, not to hold Carnera's prowess in great esteem. Commenting in Schauf's tragic demise last winter after a fight with the Italian, Uzcudun said he never would believe Carnera responsible.

"He can't hit hard enough to do a thing like that," the Woodchopper was quoted. "Carnera throws his tremendous weight at his opponents. They don't feel his punches so much as they feel his great bulk."

Uzcudun has an alibi—"poison"—for his poor showing in the United States last year and his admirers think he may do better. He has repeatedly declared he was "doped" by someone when he lost to Walker and Schauf.

BETTING INNOVATION

"DAILY DOUBLE"
AT VALLEY

START OF NEW SEASON

A new feature will be introduced in the betting at the forthcoming Extra Race Meeting of the Hongkong Jockey Club, and it is hoped, at subsequent race meetings, in the form of a pari-mutuel "daily double" or accumulator.

To achieve the double it is necessary for backers to spot the winner of two races previously selected by the Stewards. Those successful in the first race are eligible to back the winner of the second selected race. The Pool, constituted by the number of daily double bets on the first selected race after deducting commission, will be divided amongst the nominators of the winning combination. The procedure is as follows:

Immediately the numbers of the starters in the first selected race are exhibited, tickets on the "daily double" at a cost of $5 each, will be obtainable at a special Daily Double Counter. The purchaser must state the number of the pony he wishes to back in that race, and see that he obtains a ticket bearing that pony number.

The ticket is divided into two sections each bearing the same ticket number, and should the pony backed in the first selected race win, the holder of the ticket must, after the starters are exhibited for the second selected race, fill in, in words, in English, on both halves of the ticket the number of the pony he wishes to back to complete the "double."

The bottom half must be posted in a box provided, before the ringing of the bell closing the pari-mutuel betting on the second of the selected races. The box will then be removed and all unposted tickets become null and void.

The top half of the ticket which is clearly marked, is to be retained by the backer, and presented by him for payment if successful.

It is inadvisable for backers to destroy the unposted portions of their tickets until after the declaration of the dividend, because, if the winning combination is unbacked, the pool will be divided amongst the successful backers in the first selected race.

Gross Receipts of 1932 Meeting

Los Angeles, Aug. 5.

Total gross receipts for the 1932 Olympic games here almost a year ago were fixed at $1,483,535 in an 814-page official report released recently.

Admissions—totalled 1,247,580 over the sixteen-day period from July 30 to August 14 last, a daily average of 77,973.

While no estimate of the net receipts was made, the local organising committee announced shortly after the games that the million dollar State bond issue plus interest would be retired and the residue would go to the city and county of Los Angeles.

$50,000 RESIDUE.

This residue has not been turned over to these Governmental bodies but it was estimated at the time of the announcement that it would be approximately $50,000.

The greatest single crowd gathered to see the opening ceremony when 101,022 persons filled the Memorial Coliseum (Olympic Stadium) nearly to capacity.

Track and field athletics attracted the largest crowd, 427,171, with the receipts totalling $548,334.10. Swimming, gymnastics, rowing and equestrian sports followed in the order named.

SARAZEN'S TRIBUTE TO PRINCE OF WALES

"Oh boy, was I glad when the wind came along, because it gave our younger fellows, who have not played in England before, a real taste of what Hagen, I and others have had to contend with in the past."

Sarazen spoke of the apparent drifting apart in recent years, of the professionals and amateurs, which he said was more noticeable in England.

PROS. AND AMATEURS.

"I wish something could be done to bring them closer together again," he said. "I would like to see, and I believe it might be the solution of the problem, matches annually played between the British Ryder Cup Team and the American Walker Cup Team, and the British Walker Cup Team and the American Ryder Cup Team."

"And there's another thing I should like to see," said Sarazen, "and that is an 'International' golf tournament, patterned after the Ryder Cup, of tennis, in which the golfing countries of the world—England, America, Japan, France, Argentina, and others—could meet in a real international contest. I am sure it would be a great attraction."

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

Edmund Lowe, Wynne Gibson, James Gleason, Dickie Moore and Allan Dinehart are featured in "The Devil is Driving," having its final showing to-day at the Queen's. The majority of the action of the picture is set in a garage, which serves as a "front" for operations of a gang of auto thieves, and for a luxurious speakeasy.

The speakeasy is located on the top floor of the garage, and is entered through a parked automobile. Booths for customers are built to imitate the interiors of expensive cars. The bar is circular and decorated to resemble a gigantic tire.

"Happy Ever After"

Jack Hulbert, Britain's most versatile screen comedian has quite a different type of role in "Happy Ever After," now playing at the Central Theatre.

He plays the part of Willie, a window-cleaner, pals with a colleague ("Sonnie Hale") until they both fall in love with a delightful little girl up from the country, who possesses one ambition, and that is to be a Hollywood film star. Their companionship is broken by quarrels over the fair charmer and although the onlooker gets a lot of laughs out of the situation they become very gloomy.

Jack Hulbert invests his role with a whimsical kind of humor that, while in contrast to his more robust methods in "Jack's The Boy" is very pleasing to watch. He succeeds in gaining sympathy as well as laughs, and his Willie is a very human fellow, whose affairs Hulbert makes of considerable interest to the onlooker. Lillian Harvey is the girl in question.

"State Fair"

Romance and comedy are evenly balanced in Fox Film's "State Fair," which will be screened at the Oriental Theatre, to-morrow, and stars supreme in each of the two fields comprise the cast.

Janet Gaynor, Lew Ayres, Sally Ellers and Norman Foster carry the romance. On the comedy lineup are Will Rogers, Frank Craven, Louise Dresser and Victor Jory.

Two love affairs feature the literary Guild prize novel by Phil Strong upon which the picture is based. Miss Gaynor and Ayres are the principals of one. Miss Ellers and Foster are the sweethearts of the other. The comedy centres chiefly around a farmer who enters his prize hog, Blue Boy, for the grand championship at the state fair. Blue Boy, a 900-pound Hampshire boar, is said to contribute considerable unconscious comedy.

"Made on Broadway"

A tour of New York's most exclusive night spots!

If anyone were to attempt a jaunt through one of the "rendezvous for relaxation" in the metropolis during one evening it would be necessary to make an outlay of greenbacks sufficient to pay off a large part of that old mortgage with enough left over to send the kiddies to the country and pay grandma's dentist bill.

But for those who would like to get a glimpse of famous and infamous folk at play with a minimum of monetary discomfort, a new picture has been filmed, titled "Made on Broadway," with Robert Montgomery and Sally Eilers in leading roles, and commences to-morrow at the Queen's Theatre. It is based on an original story by Courtney Terrott, who acquired a fund of information on New Yorkers and their habits during his many years as a newspaperman.

Park Avenue Locale

Intimate scenes are shown in Park Avenue "clubs" where politicians gather to pull the various strings to release money from the city treasury without disturbing the taxpayer's lethargy. Speakeasies, organized on a luxurious scale are reproduced for the picture and people with suave representatives of Manhattan's smartest smart set.

Montgomery fills the role of an experienced city politician, who manoeuvres city politics to suit his own ends. Sally Eilers is one of his synthetic creations who starts as a bedraggled waitress and becomes the toast of Broadway.

"Beat of Enemies," Fox Film's new romantic comedy, comes to the King's Theatre to-morrow. Buddy Rogers and Marion Nixon have the featured roles.

In theme and treatment, it is a film that has as timely a significance as any recently seen. Against a background that depicts the changes of time, the story details a romance between two youngsters whose personal lives are inextricably bound up with passing events. Their upbringing, their daily life, belonging, as they do, to a familiar class of Americans, gives rise to a number of barriers that must be overcome.

Buddy Rogers, absent from the motion picture screen for these many months, hereby makes his return. With the training he has achieved in a year of personal appearances throughout the country, Rogers is said to have garnered enough experience to present himself as a new type of screen performer. Marian Nixon, in the leading feminine role, climaxes a year of important screen parts with this film.

The cast in support of Rogers and Miss Nixon is headed by the veterans, Frank Morgan and Joseph Cawthorn, and includes Greta Nison, Will Rogers, William Lawrence and Arno Frey, William Lawrence and Anders Van Haden among others. The film has a musical background directed of dance sequences under the direction of Sammy Lee.

HOUSING SCHEME

TENANTS AUTOMATICALLY
BECOME OWNERS

One of the largest residential buildings ever to be erected in Hongkong is planned by the Hinglung Mansions Ltd., a company recently incorporated under the Hongkong Companies Ordinance.

The Company, which has Sir Robert Ho Tung as Chairman of Directors, intends to erect a modern seven-storeyed structure on a select residential site in Kowloon.

The building, when completed, will contain 112 luxurious and up-to-date flats for European occupation.

Each flat-holder will become a shareholder in a co-operative company, the share being represented by one of the 112 flats, which may be either occupied by the shareholder, or sub-let to approved tenants.

A small initial payment will be required from shareholders, and monthly payments thereafter will amount to less than the average rental usually paid for a high class apartment in Hongkong.

The monthly payment will include rates, taxes and management expenses, and will continue for a maximum period of twelve years. The entire building will then become the property of the shareholders, and they will pay no further rentals, contributing only the usual rates and taxes.

Popular Elsewhere.

The scheme, although new to Hongkong, has become popular in other parts of the world, particularly in London, Shanghai and the United States.

Although many Hongkong residents stay in the Colony for much less than twelve years, it is pointed out that should they take shares in the Company, their interest will have a definite collateral value, which will naturally increase with each monthly payment made.

Thus, if a shareholder contributes for only seven years, his interest in one of the 112 flats will be exactly half its value, and it may be sold or sub-let on this basis.

The land, which is on the Kowloon waterfront in a select European residential area, has been purchased at a price considerably less than a valuation by a leading firm of architects and valuers.

The building, which will contain every modern convenience, is estimated to cost $800,000 to erect. It is understood that the necessary finance has been advanced by the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation at a low rate of interest.

It is reported that the Japanese have already obtained permission of the Kwantung Leased Territory to unearth the gold in question.—Reuter.

FRANCE'S REPLY TO HITLER

DALADIER INSPECTS FORTIFICATIONS

Paris, Aug. 29.
The visit of the Premier, M. Edouard Daladier, to the intricate fortifications along the German frontier after proclaiming that France had resolved to guarantee Austria's independence, has aroused keen interest in French political circles.

In a statement made before he left to inspect the tremendous dug-outs over 125 miles along the frontier, the Premier declared that "France wants peace but it is our duty to assure our liberty which will be better respected when it is known that we are capable of guaranteeing it. We must also be on our guard to see that decisions and regulations in Europe of such bodies as the League of Nations and the Hague Court are observed."—Reuter.

Paris, Aug. 28.
M. Daladier's visit of inspection to the fortresses in Alsace-Lorraine is generally considered by the press here as constituting a counter-manifestation to the simultaneous German demonstration at the National Monument on the crest of the Niederwald Hill, on the banks of the Rhine, in favour of the return of the Saar territory to Germany.—Trans-Ocean Kuo Min.
